

UNITED STATES
DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

NATIONAL POLLINATOR WEEK
June 16–22, 2014

By the Secretary of the Interior of the United States of America

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS pollination by animal species is vital to the health of diverse ecosystems, which provide forage; fish and wildlife; water, mineral, and energy resources; and recreational opportunities for the public; and

WHEREAS pollinators, found across America in urban and rural areas, can be used to connect children to nature, engaging future generations in conservation; and

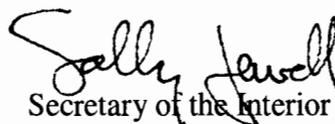

WHEREAS both public and private lands benefit by providing critical safe havens for pollinating species that are vital to healthy ecosystems and the supply of healthy foods; and

WHEREAS the Department's participation through four bureaus – the U.S. Geological Survey, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the National Park Service, and the Bureau of Land Management – in the North American Pollinator Protection Campaign (www.pollinator.org), whose mission is to encourage the health of resident and migratory pollinating animals in North America, is an important example of a public-private partnership; and

WHEREAS the Department protects and manages much of the Nation's natural resources and cultural heritage; provides scientific and other information about those resources; and honors its trust responsibilities and special commitments to American Indians, Alaska Natives, and affiliated island communities;

NOW, THEREFORE, in recognition of the importance of pollinators to healthy ecosystems on public and private lands and their value to the Nation's economy, I, Sally Jewell, Secretary of the United States Department of the Interior, do hereby proclaim June 16–22, 2014, as National Pollinator Week at the Department of the Interior. I call upon the American public to join us in recognizing the importance of pollinators and the stewardship role the Department plays in providing valuable pollinator habitats throughout the Nation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this 16 day of June 2014, the two-hundred thirty-eighth year of the Independence of the United States of America.

Secretary of the Interior